

Pan Mixers takes the initiative

Sermac concrete pumps were launched at the Pan Mixers International Product Fair

In bringing together some of the highest quality equipment and the most knowledgeable industry experts at its international product fair recently, Pan Mixers signalled its committed to providing solutions to the concrete industry's product needs.

Pan Mixers director Walter Ebeling says: "The fair was more than just a way to show our customers new products. It is our way of showing our commitment to offering the best service and the best technology-in good and in tough times."

A line up of speakers from around the globe discussed various issues affecting the industry and were on hand to answer questions posed by the audience. Local speakers included Omega Consulting Services' Gordon Forester, with over 30 years of experience in the concrete industry; and John Cairns, Director of the Concrete Manufacturers Association, who discussed new SABS paving slab standards for January 2010.

A highlight of the Product Fair was the launch of Pan Mixers' new range of Sermac concrete pumps-which were on display at the product fair. ■
